DTI reminds consumers to buy Christmas lights with PS mark or ICC sticker

The Department of Trade and Industry (DTI), through the Bureau of Philippine Standards (BPS), reminds consumers to only purchase Christmas lights that bear the Philippine Standard (PS) mark or the Import Commodity Clearance (ICC) sticker for guaranteed product safety and quality.

According to BPS Director Neil Catajay, the first thing consumers must look for when buying Christmas lights is the certification mark, either the PS mark or ICC sticker, as proof that the products have undergone the BPS certification process.

For her part, BPS Standards Conformity Division's OIC-Asst. Chief Engr. Leah Ann Arella explained the difference between the PS mark and the ICC sticker.

She said that the PS License and the authority to use the PS mark are granted to manufacturers after successfully complying with the factory audit and product testing.

Meanwhile, the ICC and the corresponding ICC stickers are issued to importers on a per shipment per Bill of Lading/Airway Bill basis after product inspection and testing.

Engr. Arella also mentioned that consumers may verify the authenticity of the ICC stickers they may find on Christmas lights packaging through the ICC Sticker Verification App that may be downloaded via Google Play Store or Apple App Store.

Further, the DTI-BPS gives the following additional safety reminders to consumers:

For those who will be reusing Christmas lights from last year, carefully inspect the plug and cord of the lighting set for brittle and dented parts as the insulation material made of PVC plastic deteriorates over time.

Dispose old and damaged Christmas lights.

If stored Christmas lights can still be used but have burnt out bulbs, replace the burnt bulbs before using.

Check the manufacturer's instruction regarding the advisable number of connected sets of Christmas lights. If possible, plug each Christmas lights set directly to the electrical outlet.

Do not overload electrical outlets. Too many plugs in one outlet may overheat the outlet and may start fire.

Do not leave Christmas lights turned on overnight.

Do not use nails, thumb tacks, and wire staples when hanging Christmas lights as these may damage its parts and create fire hazards. Use light hangers instead which are available in hardware and home stores.

Read carefully the instructions on the packaging and/or the manuals of Christmas lights provided by the manufacturer.

Catajay also shared that the BPS is already coordinating with the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) for possible adoption of their standards for Christmas lanterns or parol. He highlighted that the aim is not to regulate the parol products in the country but to help local manufacturers produce globally-competitive products and facilitate export of Filipino-made lanterns to international markets.

The DTI-BPS is the National Standards Body authorized to promulgate Philippine National Standards (PNS). PNS are voluntary in nature and may be used as reference by any interested parties. The conformance to PNS or parts thereof becomes mandatory only when the same is used as reference in Technical Regulations issued by regulatory authorities such as the DTI.

Christmas lights are one of the 111 products currently under the DTI-BPS list of products under mandatory certification (complete list at www.bps.dti.gov.ph). To serve as guide for consumers, the DTI-BPS has released the list of DTI-certified Christmas lights as of 09 November 2022.

WORD ALIVE

Christ as king and judge

Tomorrow (November 20) is the feast of Christ the King of the Universe.

Is Christ really a king? Standing before Pontius Pilate, Christ did not deny it. But then he said, My kingdom does not belong to this world (Jn 18,36).

In his book titled, His Word Resounds, Albert Cylwicki says: Christ's kingdom does not depend on military might, economic strength or political power. It is a spiritual kingdom that depends on faith, prayer and good works. It is a kingdom that promotes peace where there is violence, justice where there is exploitation and freedom where there is oppression.

In this Sunday gospel, Jesus is presented as a king who will judge us. He will decide on that final day who will or will not share his kingdom forever. It's a dreadful scene but for those who are faithful to Jesus' teachings, it will be a day of glory.

If you read carefully the parable of the Last Judgment (Mt. 25, 31-46), you will notice that our judgment will not depend on whether you're a genius, a Miss Universe, or the wealthiest man in the world. Obviously, these are important but the Lord is saying that wealth and talents should be shared at the service of the least, last, and lost of society. Hence, the question that will be asked is: How much have you done or not done for them?

The late Mother Teresa, now a saint, was so deeply moved by Jesus' Parable of the Last Judgment that she left behind her work in a school and devoted her whole life helping the poorest of the poor. She said, I want to go to Heaven that's why I follow Jesus' teaching, devoting my life for the poor.

(Note: Fr. San Luis hails from Laoag City. He served as President of Divine Word College of Laoag in the 1980s. His new turf is the Christ The King Seminary in Quezon City. Thank you, Father Bel for sharing your weekly column for the Ilocos Sentinel. Editor)

Of course, not all of us can emulate the difficult work of the late Mother Teresa. But we must always have the spirit of charity that moves us to do works of mercy.

This was the life led by the Lord who went about doing good (Acts 10,38). St. James reinforces that when he said: Faith, without works, is dead.

Doing good could mean providing one's helpers and workers security for their old age (SSS), sick leave or housing benefits.

Every education system has methods of disciplining learners and ensuring that they no longer are deemed incorrigible. In the case of our education landscape, I am appalled at the way our learners have turned out, but I am not referring to a great majority. As a teacher for 15 years now, I have encountered different types of learners and had in some of my classes the worst kinds of learners.

Del-Mar coop produces quality virgin coco oil

PAGUDPUD, Ilocos Norte--Coconut tree proves to be a versatile plant. The leaves can be made as a traditional broom locally called sagadit or walis tingting. The shell and husk comes the floor scrub called bunot. The trunk as cocolumber, the fruit and juice as food and drink and lately as virgin coconut oil. In the coastal town of Pagudpud, Ilocos Norte, coconut trees dot its beaches by leap and bound. For this reason, the Del-Mar Shellcraft Multipurpose Cooperative grabs the opportunity to produce various crafts made of coconuts. With training and equipment assistance from the Department of Trade and Industry (DTI) and the Philippine Coconut Authority (PCA) under the Department

There are many of them who are behaviorally challenged due to several factors such as parental separation, past traumas, experiences of bullying, displacement from their immediate communities, and even mental health issues.

Among the conflicts in the school setting which are prevalent are students replying curtly to their teachers; students bullying one another or even their teachers; students falsely accusing their teachers of offenses such as sexual harassment, physical assault, verbal bullying, power tripping, and other similar transgressions against learners; physical fisticuffs between or among students; sexual assault between or among students (and teachers, to some extent); absenteeism, truancy, and tardiness; and, to a greater extent nowadays, students attempting to commit homicide against their teachers for various reasons. With the types of students that our education landscape has nowadays, as well as their unbridled exposure to violence and other instances of immorality and depravity in media, particularly audiovisual modes such as radio, television, and, most notably, social media platforms.

I have learned through the years that forgiving my students and giving them a chance to grow, as well as supporting them in their endeavors, is one of the most effective ways to discipline them and to protect them from the clutches of communism and leftism. Though I have discovered the previously-mentioned strategies only during the time I began to be enlightened as an educational leader (some eight or nine years after I began teaching) and education reform advocate/media personality, I have used such strategies ever since and these turned out to be very effective. Other strategies that I use include talking to my students with compassion and understanding, affirming their strengths, asking them how they are doing, and assuring them that I am there for them when they need my counsel and protection.

I have realized that being supportive, compassionate, and understanding towards my students does count more than being too stringent, arrogant, and brusque. I have also learned that love is more powerful than anything else when it comes to resolving classroom and school conflicts. The same applies to our common war against communism and leftism, which have been perpetrated by nefarious organizations such as Kabataan Partylist, Bahaghari, Gabriela, Alliance of Concerned Teachers, and Teachers Dignity Coalition, which are all undeniably fronts of the CPP-NPA-NDF.

Because I have been pro-government as well as a Marcos loyalist, I have realized that I have the power to be part of the fight against communism. With my friends and fellow loyalists and supporters backing me up, as well as being on the side of DepEd, I will unceasingly apply the brakes on communism and leftism, mainly through my media practice, until the last day of my temporal life.

GUESS WHAT, GUESS WHO!

GUESS WHAT: Stymieing the efforts of big businesses and rapaciously dominating business markets are the trademarks of this long-standing political clan from a province somewhere in the northern part of Luzon. According to my source, who is a small business owner, the henchmen of the political dynasty in question has been thwarting tycoons who would attempt to establish branches of their respective businesses, particularly in the fast food industry. As a result, branches of the food conglomerates were established in nearby towns.

What are the lessons of the story? Never be the cause of businesses to fail. Avoid using terrorism at all costs, even subtly. Be an agent of change, not of resentment among your constituents. Grow your territory by welcoming legitimate businesses.

GUESS WHO: Who is this department chairperson who has turned out to be gullible as well as discordant towards one of his/her teachers under his/her supervision? My source, a teacher with a doctorate degree and a single parent to boot, relayed to me that our subject believed rumors accusing my source of being truant with his/her obligations. The reason why my source would not pay for now is that s/he has been a victim of power tripping and singling out by our subject, who has the proclivity to forget to verify news about the teachers within his/her department. As a result, my source has been feeling aghast and ostracized.

What are the lessons of the story? Support your subordinate especially if the rumors are unfounded. Be like Sherlock Holmes in probing the veracity of the news about your subordinates. Never be a power-tripping jackass for karma will hit you hard and fast in a digital manner. Your transgressions against those whom you perceive as threats will boomerang towards you in the long run.

If you have suggestions in terms of the education-related topics that you want me to feature, please feel free to send me an email to edteo.ramos@yahoo.com or to coachjet.inspirations@gmail.com and I will reply to you as soon as I receive your email. It's very inspiring that there are some proprietors of vast malls who, as an act of charity, support the scholarship of numerous students coming from poor families. May these Good Samaritans increase.

The feast of Christ the King is a reminder of the Lord's second coming and Final Judgment; likewise, it is a challenge to do more good for the least of Christ's brethren.

The lighter side. A man confided to his friend, I went to see my doctor about my heart ailment. He told me to change my lifestyle. No smoking, no drinking, no meat.

So, what happened, did you change your lifestyle? The friend said. No I changed my doctor, he replied.

Lesson: Isn't that our attitude towards God sometimes? We change him if we don't like his prescriptions because they're hard to swallow, like forgiving an enemy, living with an unlovable spouse, being morally straight.

If you don't like Him, there's always someone waiting the devil.

Birthday. Dear Readers, today, Nov. 19, I celebrate my birthday. May I request a birthday gift that's not for me but for the seminarians we're supporting under the Adopt-A-Seminarian scholarship program; also the indigent sick, like four-year-old asthmatic Joshel C. and five-year-old Alison Genesis L. who's sick with leukemia.

Whatever amount you can donate will be highly blessed by the Lord.

Raise Your Flag Ilocos Norte has kicked off! Ilocos has long been on my bucket list to feature for my Raise Your Flag series at hindi ito yung first time ko sa region, pero magiging first time ko to truly immerse myself in the culture, traditions, sights, and foods of the North, she later posted in her vlog.

The first day of Ms. Gray's visit to the province quickly trended on social media as it drew a lot of netizens' online comments when she was seen snacking the empanada paired with ketchup instead of the famous Sukang Iloko vinegar.

Ms. Gray also met octogenarian Magdalena Gamayo, a master weaver dubbed as National Living Treasure, at the Gawad Manlilikha ng Bayan Cultural Center in Pinili town.

"I don't find myself welling up with tears for many things. But watching Nana Magdalena sitting at her loom, at the graceful age of 98, naiiyak ako. Her hands have literally woven tradition, the hands of a national living treasure. I'm so honored to have met her and witnessed her craft with my own eyes, Ms. Gray stressed.

During her four-day sortie, she always wore Inabel, the locally handwoven fabric.

Her vlog Raise Your Flag also featured the UNESCO World Heritage site of the centuries-old St. Augustine Church of Paoay, the Paseo de Paoay, the Ilocos Norte Sand Dunes, the Bangui windmill farm, the Kaangrian falls in Burgos, and the Saud white beach in Pagudpud.

In April 2021, Saud white beach attraction landed in the Travel & Leisure International magazine's 25 Most Beautiful Beaches in the World.

It described its water as clear as glass like a real-world example of a zero-entry swimming pool.

Before leaving Pagudpud, Ms. Gray also dropped by the DelMar Multi-purpose Cooperative's souvenir shop of artistic shell crafts. (Edison Justin B. Deus, PGIN-CMO) opportunities and were able to meet with the top management of HAU including University President Leopoldo N. Valdez and Center for Kapampangan Studies Director Robert P. Tantingco. We believe that adopting the best practices and outstanding operational standards of your organization in various key areas will further improve the Provincial Government of La Union particularly in the establishment of our own Center for Ilokano Studies. We would like to extend our gratitude for heeding our call for a collaborative partnership in this benchmarking activity, said Gov. Rafy during the courtesy visit at the university. On the other hand, the team was also able to immerse and learn from the Provincial Government (PG) of Pampanga's relevant and innovative initiatives on culture, arts and tourism. The TWG were oriented on the province's best practices, particularly on their UNESCO Bid: Enlisting of the human-making tradition of Santa Rita to the UNESCO's prestigious list of intangible cultural heritage on safeguarding a note-worthy food tradition. They also had the opportunity to meet and converse with some members of the Provincial Board at the Pampanga Sangguniang Panlalawigan Session Hall. Special Assistant to Governor of Pampanga Ms. Angelina S. Blanco, who represented Governor Dennis G. Pineda, together with Pampanga Culture, Arts and Tourism Officer Randy del Rosario warmly welcomed the team and discussed and exchanged strategies and best practices. Provincial Tourism Officer Art Cortez, Jr. also expressed his gratitude to PG Pampanga for all the inputs and information they provided. According to him, the benefits of their benchmarking activity in Pampanga are worth the time as it opened for La Union's door to various opportunities and gained better understanding on how to fit in with the province's future plans and programs for a more sustainable tourism and cultural management and development. The team were also able to visit the New Clark City and International Airport and Bale Balayan, a Museum for the poor and unprivileged children. The benchmarking activity was concluded with an exchange of tokens of appreciation between the 2 provinces and photo opportunity to commemorate a successful event.

Through the benchmarking activity, PGLU hopes to assimilate the values and practices that have enabled the Province of Pampanga to uphold a brand of catalyst for development in Central and Northern Luzon and become center for excellence in cultural heritage conservation, and use these tools in its own journey towards #LaUnionPROBINSYAnihan (Joy Ann L. Regional Director Paula Paz M. Sydiongco said that the regional office together with the local governments of the province of La Union are providing interventions to members of diabetes mellitus (DM) clubs such as diabetes education, coaching including social support to improve diabetes testing and monitoring, medication adherence, diet, physical activity, or weight management.

Ang mga health workers naman natin ay nagbibigay ng mga one-on-one interactions or group sessions sa mga myembro upang sila ay mabigyan pa ng karagdagang impormasyon patungkol sa sakit na diabetes. .

Sydiongco also encouraged individuals to exercise regularly, be more active and lose extra weight to reduce the risk of diabetes and most important is to practice healthy lifestyle to prevent the onset of any illness.

World Diabetes Day started in 1991 by the International Diabetes Federation with support from the World Health Organization as an answer to growing concerns about the health and economic threat posed by diabetes, hence, World Diabetes Day became an official United Nations Day in 2006.

This year s theme Education to Protect Tomorrow seeks to highlight the opportunities to strengthen the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of diabetes.
